Dear Fellow Alumni:

At last, no more holiday cards marked "Address Unknown"!

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, in conjunction with Publishing Concepts, Inc., is proud to present the 1993 Alumni Directory. This, our newest volume, updates our previous directory published in 1987. It serves you as a useful reference guide and provides us with essential information for our alumni records.

The 1993 Alumni Directory is the final result of a twelve-month project involving direct mail surveys, compilation of data, and the assembly of information into an attractive and usable form. As you can imagine, a project of this scope, involving approximately 75,000 alumni, requires considerable effort to accomplish. We are grateful to our many alumni who participated in the 1993 directory, the staff at the IUP Office of Alumni Affairs, and Publishing Concepts. We hope you enjoy using this directory in contacting old friends and classmates, or in planning reunions or IUP alumni chapter activities.

How to Use This Directory

The 1993 Alumni Directory includes valuable new information: advanced degrees, work information, and home and business phone numbers. Not all listings are complete, as some alumni have chosen not to have some of the data listed or have not provided us with the information. A complete listing is as follows:

Last Name, Title, First, Middle Initial, Class Year, Advanced Degree
W: Title or Nature of Business
Employer Name
Employer Address
Business Phone Number
H: Address
Phone Number

Alphabetical List

This section lists all alumni alphabetically. It includes full name, class year, degree, business and home addresses, and phone numbers. Married alumni are listed by their married and maiden name.

Class List

This section lists alumni alphabetically by class year. Married alumni are listed by their maiden name with married name in parenthesis. The state of residence follows each entry. Lost and deceased are footnoted.

Geographical List

This section lists alumni alphabetically by state and city. Alumni not residing in the United States are listed at the end of the geographical section and are grouped alphabetically under country name only. Married alumni are listed by their married name. Year of graduation follows each entry.

The information in this directory was compiled from information received as of September, 1992. The directory was prepared from a tape of the university's computerized data file, which may account for illogical division of words or other irregularities despite our attempts to monitor the programming, check test samples, and correct proofs. Where we have made a mistake, we hope you will accept our apologies and let us know so that we can correct our records. Please send changes to:

What Is IUP?

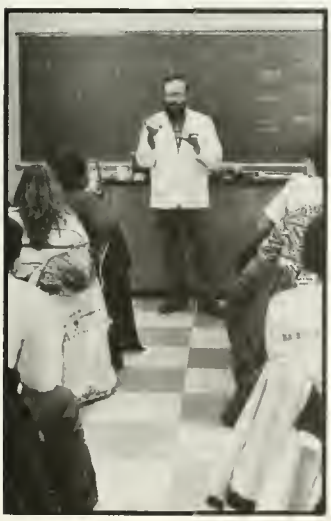
IUP has witnessed a history rich in accomplishment. Since 1875, when Indiana Normal School served only 225 students in a single building, the institution has experienced continuous growth--to Indiana State Teachers College in 1927, to Indiana State College in 1959, and to university status in 1965. IUP is proud to boast that over 75,000 people have graduated since the doors first opened in 1875. Our alumni association strives to promote the interests of the school and maintain a spirit of fellowship among all graduates.

The main campus comprises approximately 200 acres with 75 major buildings and seven athletic fields, two field houses, two swimming pools, a modern library, auditorium, theater, a health center, and two federally registered landmarks--John Sutton Hall, erected in 1875, and Breezedale mansion, built in 1868. Breezedale was named the alumni center on April 21, 1989. Breezedale Alumni Center houses the Office of Alumni Affairs. IUP also has two branch campuses located in Punxsutawney and Kittanning, Pennsylvania. These campuses offer associate of arts degrees in business and criminology as well as providing the first two years of undergraduate courses. The newest additions to IUP are the Academy of Culinary Arts located in Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania, where students can complete a two-year program in culinary arts, and a continuing education center in Bedford.

Nearly every year, Indiana University of Pennsylvania is singled out by national guides that rate value in higher education. The fact that the university is competitively priced is important, but even more important is IUP's reputation as a premier teaching university. IUP continues to uphold its commitment to teaching, a proud tradition that has characterized the institution for more than one hundred years. Barron's Guide to the Most Prestigious Colleges has listed IUP among the 283 most academically competitive colleges and universities in the country. Changing Times has identified IUP as one of only fifty U.S. colleges and universities with high academic standards but tuition and fees below the national average.

When Money magazine's Money Guide cites IUP among public universities delivering "the best education for the buck," the credit goes to IUP's committed and outstanding faculty. At IUP, faculty members employ a wide variety of teaching techniques to motivate students to learn. They also encourage participation in the university's internship and international exchange programs, two more reasons for IUP's growing and glowing reputation. Each year more than 1,000 students from forty different departments participate in field-based education programs, with over 2,000 employers accepting IUP students as interns or cooperative education participants.

While teaching is first, IUP encourages vital research in selected areas. The university offers 106 undergraduate major areas of concentration, forty master-level programs, and six doctoral-level programs to its more than fourteen thousand students, who come from thirty-five of the United States and seventy world countries. The university comprises six colleges and two schools: the College of Business, College of Education, College of Fine Arts, College of Human Ecology and Health Sciences,



College of Humanities and Social Sciences, College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, School of Continuing and Nonresident Education, and the Graduate School.

Outside the classroom, the quest for excellence continues. IUP has a nationally competitive athletic program, an internationally known marching band, and an emphasis on community service that is rarely found at a university the size of IUP. In a state with more colleges and universities than nearly any other, IUP is the fifth largest university. IUP is currently the largest of fourteen state schools which make up the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education (SSHE).

IUP is dedicated to offering students a wide variety of career possibilities while providing high-quality education at an affordable price.

Meetings and Calendar of the Alumni Association

The Executive Board holds four meetings per year. Special meetings may also be convened at the call of the association president or three members of the Executive Board; either may direct the director of Alumni Affairs to initiate procedures to call a meeting.

The association conducts at least one meeting per year. The meeting will be advertised to those association members for whom current addresses are available.

The association's fiscal and operation year is July 1 through June 30.

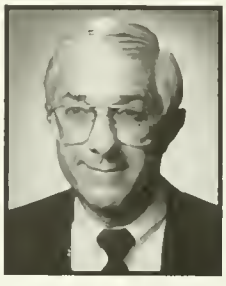
Distinguished Alumni Awards

The Distinguished Alumni Awards are presented annually by the university to alumni who have achieved distinction in their chosen fields or have demonstrated loyal and active interest in their alma mater and service to others.



The Distinguished Alumni Award is the highest award given by the Alumni Association. Only one hundred fifty-five of our seventy thousand alumni have received this award as of 1992. The university is extremely proud of its reputation of providing quality education, and we feel the image of the university is greatly enhanced by our distinguished alumni.

A Message to Alumni

from Dr. Lawrence K. Pettit
President, IUP

For more than a hundred years, this institution has had a tradition of lifelong involvement on the part of you, its alumni. In nearly every area of university life--academics, athletics, fraternities and sororities, advisory groups of all kinds--alumni play prominent and important roles. Through publications like this, the university seeks to maintain and strengthen these ties.

The growth in annual giving has also been a significant rallying force for our alumni. It has given you an opportunity to express your appreciation for what IUP has meant to you.

Fund-raising efforts in the future will focus increasingly on endowment and capital needs. Endowment affords a measure of stability on the sometimes stormy sea of state funding; moreover, the level of a university's permanent endowment is one measure of its stature. In addition, there will be capital needs associated with the new College of Business complex and with the renovation of McElhaney Hall.

A major area of emphasis in the years ahead will be increased unrestricted annual gifts for a variety of high-priority needs that cannot be met through other sources. In the past, these have included scholarship support, campus events, library acquisitions, special programs, and alumni activities. I urge you to invest in our dynamic educational mission by initiating or continuing your support for the IUP Annual Fund.

I urge you, too, to remember that IUP is not merely a place you pass through in four or so years and then leave. IUP is part of you throughout your life, just as, I hope, you will continue to be part of it. Write, visit, involve yourself in the life of your university. IUP will benefit, and so will you.

Our Donors:
Partners in the Pursuit of Excellence

Since its creation, the Foundation for IUP has supported the university's mission, thanks to the generosity of countless individuals. One area of emphasis for the Foundation has been to provide scholarship assistance to talented and deserving students.

Scholarships help to attract the best and the brightest students to IUP. Funds for scholarship support have steadily increased each year, benefitting virtually every college and department at IUP. In 1992-93, gifts from individuals and businesses enabled the Foundation to offer more than $300,000 in scholarships to IUP students.

One example of this commitment to helping students achieve their best is the Kovalchick Family Scholarship. Established by Joseph and Judy ('65) Kovalchick of Indiana, the scholarship is awarded to students from St. Marys, Pennsylvania, who have demonstrated financial need to pursue their education.

The first Kovalchick Scholar named in 1991-92 was Divonna Mohr, a freshman elementary education major. At a dinner honoring the achievements of IUP's scholarship recipients and the generosity of their benefactors, Divonna told her peers that the scholarship provided her with more than financial assistance. "I gained a new friend and a wonderful role model in Mrs. Kovalchick," she said in appreciation.

With costs of education continuing to rise and funding from federal and state budgets shrinking each year, private support from alumni, friends, corporations, and foundations will become even more important.

IUP is a highly respected university, receiving acclaim for its exceptional teaching and innovative programs. IUP has produced some very distinguished alumni, and the future promises to add many more individuals to those ranks. By involving alumni in campus activities, fund-raising programs, advisory councils, and other opportunities, IUP is assured a great future.

Ways of Giving

Contributions to the university take many forms--donations of cash, securities, property, gifts-in-kind, or many deferred giving instruments. Your gifts may be unrestricted, or they may be designated to support a specific program or college of your choice. Many donors are employed by companies with corporate matching gift programs.

The development staff at IUP will be happy to assist you in planning your gift to the university so that your needs and interests are met. We can explore a variety of gift-giving options with you, including leadership gift opportunities. If you have questions or need additional information, please contact:
